Visits to other Country Houses

In 1992 the National Heritage Memorial Fund established the Burton Constable Foundation and provided an endowment for it to open the house and park to the public as a country-house museum.

The Friends of Burton Constable was established to support the Foundation in this role.

Over recent years the Friends of Burton Constable have contributed funds towards re-acquiring items which were formerly part of the collection including:

A pair of oil paintings commissioned on an eighteenth-century Grand Tour to Italy

An eighteenth-century cameo portrait of William Constable (1721-91)

An eighteenth-century telescope

Lithograph by Lightoler

They also support Curatorial and Education activities:

Contribution towards building the Education Centre, an alternative guide book, refurbishment of the Tea Room and providing toys and games for the Children's play areas and supporting decorating the house for Christmas

Purchase of a digital camera, a slide projector and screen, display cabinets and piano stool
